

ASIA for One Year—A Gift of Distinction!

Found? The Oldest Man in the World?

Not yet! But Roy Chapman Andrews, heading the great scientific expedition sent to Mongolia by ASIA, the American Museum of Natural History, and the American Asiatic Association, has made the greatest scientific discoveries ever unearthed in the heart of Asia. "Epochal—opening a new volume in science," in the words of the great authority, President Henry Fairfield Osborn of the Museum.

Leader Andrews Cables

First complete news of the remarkable Mongolian discoveries, cabled by Roy Andrews from Peking to ASIA, in this great December issue. Wireless, motor transport, used successfully for the first time in scientific exploration in "the cradle of the World"! Aeroplanes next! A 70-camel caravan now bringing the specimens out of the Gobi Desert. Interpretation by Dr. W. D. Matthew of the Museum.

Not the "MISSING LINK"—A Giant Mongol Friend of Roy Andrews

KEMAL—and the Signal!

A GREAT DECEMBER ISSUE

Some additional special features:

Lawusa Returns to Her Village

By R. W. Cilento

Is the heart of the Jungle Man all black?

Looking East from Moscow

By Ernestine Evans

Is Russia successfully spreading Soviet propaganda in the East?

Mahaban and Sri Krishna

By James Bissett Pratt

Did the Hindu get his god Krishna from the early Christians?

Snow in Far Eastern Painting

By Kojiro Tomita

A collection of beautiful Chinese and Japanese paintings and their legends.

The Voice from the Minaret

You can fairly hear the call of Islam in this set of striking pictures.

"At this moment, if Kemal likes, he can give the signal to raise the whole Mohammedan world against us."—Townshend.

Listen to the other things said by Major-General Sir Charles Townshend—Townshend, the gallant hero of Kut-el-Amara—Townshend, who served for twenty-one years amongst the Mohammedans, under Lord Kitchener—Townshend, who insists that British troops and Anzacs alike agree that the Turk fought like a gentleman at the Dardanelles—Townshend, whose outspoken articles in the London press on the British policy in the Near East have played no small part in the recent fall of the British Cabinet—Townshend, just back from an unofficial visit to Angora, crying out to his government: "... with Turkey leading the Mohammedan world in an organized rebellion against British rule, I see no hope for the maintenance of security of the Empire."

Two other big articles complete a trilogy of rare competency.

"The Freedom of the Straits" by Herbert Adams Gibbons, who has just returned from Asia Minor. And—

"Who Are the Turks?" by William L. Westermann, American expert-advisor on the Near East at the Paris Conference, giving the basis for an American attitude.

A superb interpretation of the Near East—candid, vastly interesting.
